The session was ordered for to-night, and then, at 2:10 p. m., the house went into committee of the whole, Mr. Hammond in the chair, on the river and harbor bill.

Mr. Horr of Michigan, while conceding that the bill had been carefully prepared, thought that congress should stop dumping money into Galveston harbor until it knew what it was about.

Mr. McAdoo of New Jersey opposed the Gal-veston project. It was giving Captain Eads a barbor to do what he liked, and the United

of an oceanic Yellowstone park. In the shadow of these big schemes there were numerous small schemes. He instanced the appropria-ion for the improvement of the Wateree river. which was nothing but a lumber yard. The engineers said that it was a net work of logs, and he thought it would be more advisable to mtke an appropriation for an engine to be kept in readiness for fire. Mr. Belford, of Colorado, who made his first appearance during the present session, was in the house to-day, and was applauded as he took the floor and offered an amendment directing the appointment of a commission to make surveys of the construcon of reservoirs to be used in irrigating the ublic lands in Colorado. He said that the ply objection to the bill was that the slices of Colonel Hardeman's friends are anxious to press him for commissioner of agriculture, but he says he prefers to see Georgia's influence united on General Lawton, or any worthy Georgian who may be presented for the cabinet with a reasonable prospect of success.

DAMAGED GRANT'S CHANCES. President Arthur's message, urging the house to pass the Grant bill in a specified form, is commented upon as a very unusual communication from the executive. Its effect has undoubtedly been damaging to the senate bill, which he commends. General Slocum says that just as sure as any bill of this kind passes the house, it will contain Grant's name. Hegavs congress is under no obligation to protect the president from the embarrassment resulting from his yeto of the Fitzjohn Porter bill, as the veto is not backed by law or

Mr. Morrill addressed the senate on the bill. He accepted the senate committee's mendments to the house bill. He had an idea that something should immediately be done by congress on the subject, though he hought that more heroic legislation would be more salutary. mere salutary. In the course of his remarks Mr. Morrill said:

For my own part, I confess that I do not feel that the government of the United States is under the slightest legal or moral obligation to retire the slightest legal or moral of the act of February 12, 1873, as containing 20 grains of silver, and at that time was equal to 118 6 in United States notes, or 10 5 cents ingold. It is true, that by some way inadvertently, it happened to be included as a legal tender by the coinage act of 1873, the same as subsidiary silver coins, to the extent of $5 for three years or nutil July 22d, 1876, when even its limited figal tender character was repealed. Up to that time the whole amount issued was $15,418,450. About this time silver began to depreciate in value, and United States notes had so much appreciated that the paper dollar was work more than the trade dollar. The speculators, therefore, carried silver building the them ont, but for the purpose of profit, if not of fraud, so that the amount to the mines and exchanged the same for trade dollars, not for export, but for the purpose of profit, if not of fraud, so that the amount to the first of the same for trade dollars, not for export, but for the purpose of profit, if not of fraud, so that the amount to stay, 592, 360. seven years, with unprecedented effort, about $41,000,000 of silver had been pushed into circulation. We have coined within the same time, and piled up in the treasury in addition thereto, $150,000,000 more. Could we be equally successful hereafter as we have been for seven years, it will require twenty-five years to exhaust our present stock. In conclusion Mr. Morrill said:

I do not wish to demonetize silver or to reduce the amount metriculation, but I would make it safe and practicable to increase the amount held in our financial institutions, as well as in the hands of the people. The present bill and amendments are intended to provide against any untoward combinations or event that shall leave us with culy one of the precious metals to support our standard of money.

Employes are paid more in this country than in supyother, and the London Times, in speaking on this subject, September 11th, '83, says: "With regard to the remuneration of labor, assuming the produce of labor to be 100 in great demand, fifty-six parts to go to the laborer, twenty-one to capital and twenty-three to the government. In the United States seventy-two parts go to labor, thirty-six to capital and/twenty-three to the government. In the United States seventy-two parts go to labor, tweaty-there to capital, and five to the government. This shows that for any depreciation of the currency which may at any time arise, the laboring men of the country must bear the brunt of the loss. Capital will lose something, and the government will also lose something, and the government will also lose something by the loss occasioned through the cheaper currency with which the custom duties must be paid, but labor will lose nearly three times as much as both capital and the government. Of all the measures which may affect the welfare of the laboring men, there are none more insiduous or more disastrous than those which tender remuneration for labor in depreciated currency, or currency below the standard of value throughout the civilized world. THE INTER-STATE BILL.

The Provisions of the Measure Which Has Passed the Senate. Washington, February 4 .- As passed by the senate the inter-state commerce bill provides for a commission to be composed of nine members, one from each judicial circuit of the members, one from each judicial circuit of the United States, to hold office for six years, except that of those first appointed three shall hold office for two years only, and three others for four years. Only the vacancies are to be filled by the president. Not more than five of the commissioners shall belong to one political party. The duties of the commission are defined to be to exercise the powers and duties granted in the bill pertaining to the methods and regulating the operation of all transportation companies engaged in interstate commerce, and to take into consideration state commerce, and to take into consideration and investigate all the various questions relating to commerce between the states, and especially the matter of transportation, so far as may be necessary to establish a just system of regulations for the government of the same. The salary of the commissioners is fixed at $7,500, and they are authorized to appoint a secretary at a salary of $3,500. All the necessary traveling expenses are to be paid by the government, and the witnesses summoned before the committee are to be paid the usual fees. The commission state commerce, and to take into consideration with esses summoned before the committee are to be paid the usual fees. THE ILLINOIS SENATORSHIP.

Morrison. Springfield, Ill., February 4.—General J. C. Black and Hon. W. J. Allen last night withdrew from their candidacy before the democratic caucus for the senatorial nomination, and it is expected by many that Hon. Carter Harrison will also withdraw before tow. R. Morrison for the eaucus nomination.
The republican senatorial caucus has been called for Thursday evening.

In speaking of a verbal amendment, J. S. Wise, of Virginia, opposed the proposition to set aside the Mississippi river commission and place the whole work in the hands of Captain Eads, whose plans were at best problematical. It not only ignored but insulted the engineer department of the government. It was a proposition to make fortunate one man by incorporating his name, in a great measure, to the exclusion of a notice that at the first opportunity he would raise the point of "no quorum," and would not permit business to proceed until a quorum should be obtained. Ryan is undecided as to his course. He said it was understood that only important items would be discussed.

Mr. White offered an amendment to increase the proposed appropriation for the harber at Burlington, Vermont, and insisted upon a quorum to vote upon it. Individual appeals were made to him to withdraw his demand, but he refused, and asked for a call of the roll. Only 136 members answered. No quorum being present, the committee under the rules rose, and its condition was reported to the house.

Mr. Willis said it was not right to test the pstience of the house by demanding the call, and moved an adjournment, which was taken

THE BATTLE OF SHILOH.

General Grant Says He Intended no Reflection on McCook or His Division.

New York, February 4.— General Grant, in an interview to-day, said he had again been misunderstood in regard to his recent article on the battle of Shiloh. General Grant said: "No reflection was intended on the personal courage or zeal of General A. McD. McCook, or the fighting qualities of his dior the fighting qualities of his division; on the contrary, I expressly stated that his division marched from twelve miles east of Savannah and had been up all night getting from Savannah to the battlefield, and as a matter of fact had been in a heavy storm of rain during the nah to the battlefield, and as a matter of fact had been in a heavy storm of rain during the entire night march. McCook's division did as good service, perhaps, as any division in the field Monday, the 7th, and on one occasion during that day opportunity fell to it to do service which received special commendation in the official reports of General Sherman and two other of General Sherman and two other general officers of the army of the Tennessee, The only thing I can see in my article that can be construed as reflecting upon General McCook, although it is not so intended by me, is the statement that the request not to be sent in pursuit did not come from the officers and men of the division, but from the commander What McCook said was correct; his men should not have been sent in pursuit, and I sected on his advice and did not send them. The article shows this." A JUDGE'S TIMIDITY.

Had Stirred Up.

Audobon, Ia., February 4.—On April 28, 1884, Hiram Jellison, an old and inoffensive cripple, was taken from his bed in the night and hanged to a tree. His son, Cicero, and his sons-in-law, John A. Smyth and Joel J. Wilson, were arrested for the crime, and Cicero made a detailed confession, admitting the guilt of himself and implicating Smyth and Wilson. They were subsequently indicted by the grand jury, but got a continuance. On Wednesday Judge Loofbarow convened the court here and the case was called for trial. The defendants filed a motion for a change of venu, on the ground of the prejudice for trial. The defendants filed a motion for a change of venu, on the ground of the prejudice of the people. Without ruling on the motion, the judge on Saturday surprised all by stating that Judge Henderson, of the Marshalltown district, would be here Monday to take his place on the bench. The latter arrived Monday, opened court and announced Loofbarow's ruling on the motion, which was to the effect that the venu would be changed to Cass county. Nothing has ever occurred that has so thoroughly aroused the indignation of our people generally as this announcement. It is charged that Judge Looff barow went away to dodge the storm that has followed his decision. Last night upwards of one hundred citizens held a secret meeting. There is a determination that the prisoners shall never leave this county. Excitement runs high and trouble is imminent.

THE PRISONERS LYNCHED.

DES MOINES, IOWA, February 4.—A report has reached here that Smyth, Wilson and Cicero Jellison, the murderers of Hiram Jellison, were lynched at Audobon this morning. Smyth and Wilson were shot in their cells, after making a desperate fight, and Cicero Jellison.

THE GUILTY OFFICIALS.

The Mayor of New Orleans Asks for Their Impeachment.

New Orleans, February 4.—Mayor Guillett submitted a message to the city council last night, in which he said the trial now progressing in the criminal court, of the employes of the city government, charged with the assassination of A. H. Murphy, has developed such horrible facts and details as to call on the port for immediate and summary action in the premises. It will be said by certain persons that as the onestion of the crift or impresses of the the question of the guilt or innocence of the persons referred to is now at issue before a court of justice, the council should remain in tact and make its verdict on the finding of that court of justice, the council should remain interest and make its verdict on the finding of that court. This conclusion is erroneous and unfair. No one can deny that Thomas J. Ford and his accomplices in the murder of A. H. Murphy are city officials. No one, after reading the evidence as already elicited, will dare deny their guilt, direct or indirect. No one will dare say that the jurors now sitting in judgment on the case are all men of incorruptible honesty. Consequently, what connection can be traced between the finding of Ford and others not guilty, by the jury, and conviction, and the certainty on the part of the city council and the community of their undeniable and absolute guilt. After dwelling upon the subject at considerable length, the mayor concludes by charging Thomas J. Ford, of the second recorder's court, and other attaches of the court, now on trial, with conspiracy and malicious murder, and advising that immediate steps be taken for their impeachment. The matter was referred to the committee on public order.

The testimony closed.

The testimony closed.

The testimony in the Murphy murder trial closed to-day. The general impression is that the defense has broken down. Mr. and Mrs. Stanford and the New York Mediums. New York, February 4.—The spiritualistic mediums of this city are mourning because ex-Governor and Mrs. Leland Stanford, of Califorwere "meat" for the mediums. When they were they were "meat" for the mediums. When they arrived here on their way home from Europe, where their son died, Mrs. Stanford at once began to consult mediums, and her interest in spiritualism grew on what it fed on. Once she went to Siade and found him so remarkable that she sand a carrivers for him to come to the that she sent a carriage for him to come to the

As soon as it became known among the spiritualists generally that the Stanfords were believer; it was a source of hearty congratuspiritualists generally that the Stanfords were telievers it was a source of hearty congratulation. One medium in New York and one in Brocklyn finally received their undivided patronage. Altogether Mr. and Mrs. Stanford went through a spiritualistic experience that would have unsettled the reason of stoics. At the sittings voices would address the poor mother and assure her that have been very seef and some hereaver weight. her lost boy was safe, and sson a hoarse voice would be heard saying, "Mother, mother." The Stanfords met Parson Newman and found that he was an ardent believer in the phanomena, and eventually he went to California to preach the funeral oration over the body of the boy, for which he received $10,000.

CALLING FOR FUNDS.

The New Orleans Exposition Sends Tw Delegations to Ask Congress for Aid. New Orleans, February 4.—The bright sunny weather continues, and the attendance at the exposition is increasing day by day. The business of the exhibitors is improving, and nothing is left to complain of. A meeting of the exhibitors association was held to-day, the object being to decide whether or not a memorial to congress should be adopted, asking for pecuniary assistance for the management. After discussion it was decided that the association should not make a joint memorial with the United States commissioners, but forward their views in a separate memorial.

the association should not make a joint memorial with the United States commissioners, but forward their views in a separate memorial, emanating from and representing their own body, acting, however in strict harmony with the commissioners. The exhibitors will send a committee of three to Washington with the memorial.

In the world's exposition dairy contest, just closed, Minnesota takes twenty-six premiums, aggregating nearly $16,000. This includes the grand sweepstakes premium of $1,000 and the gold medal for the best butter made in the world.

The following United States commissioners left for Washington, to-night, in the interest of the world's exposition: Frank Bacon, of Kansas, chairman; Oliver Gibbs, Minnesota; E. D. Perkins, Kentucky; P. O. Clark, Rhode Island; J. B. Meade, Vermont; E. D. Halton, Wisconsin; and Frank M. Murphy, Arizona. Reports have been circulated that there was a want of harmony among the lady commissioners of the exposition, and that dissatisfaction was felt with the management of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe. A meeting was held in the Texas department today for the purpose of contradicting these reports. Resolutions culogizing Mrs. Howe and indorsing her management were introduced and unanimously adopted in every particular. The meeting of the lady commissioners has been harmonious throughout.

LUCILLE DUDLEY.

UNRAVELING THE STORY OF HER

The Victim of a Meck Marriage and Made Desperate by the Death of Her Child, She Found Solace in Poison—Putin Prison—Her Arrival in America and her Coats with Rosss. London, February 4 .- An examination of the police reports at Worship street police court reveals the following: Lucilla Dudley, a lady-like looking person, aged about 24 years, who described herself as a governess, charged with attempting suicide. The porter of the Great Eastern railway deposed that on the arrival of his train in Liverpool street, London, he saw the prisoner, Mrs. Dudley, in a first-class carriage, apparently asleep with a handkerchief over her tace. Removing the handkerchief witness found her insensible. She was holding a bottle labeled poison. Mrs. Dudley was removed to the hospital. Witness stated that nobody else was in the railway carriage. The surgeon who attended Mrs. Dudley at the hospital deposed that she was suffering from the effects of chloroform. Witness said she recovered consciousness after eight hours. Mrs. Dudley denied that she had taken anything of a paisonous nature. When taken into custody Mrs. Dudley was detected in the act of trying to swallow a white powder. The jailer at the police station where the woman was imprisoned, deposed that she expressed regret at her failure to accomplish her purpose. An analysist deposed that the powder Mrs. Dudley attempted to swallow was opium. Another packet of opium was found sewed in her clothes. Mrs. Dadley was opium. Another packet of opium was found sewed in her clothes. Mrs. Dudley stated in court that she had no relatives living and had been a governess; also described herself as a hospital nurse, but appearances seemed to contradict this statement. She refused to give any account of herself. Five letters found on her person furnished no clue to her identity. She said she was driven to attempt suicide by the loss of her child. A pair of child's shoes and gloves in her possession tended to corroborate the assertion. The magistrate said that in view of the fact that the chaplain of the house of detention stated that the woman would not promise not to repeat the offense he was unable to set her at liberty without two screties of £25 each for her good behavior for three months. Mrs. Dudley smiled at the announcement and left the room quietly.

HER SUBSECUENT HISTORY.

After Mrs. Dudley similed at the announcement and was therefore sent to the house of detention at Millbank for a time. According to another account Mrs. Dudley was the victim of a mock marriage to an English clergyman who was already married. She was subject to moods of intense love and hate. Letters written by her, one of which was found upon her after she tried to poison herself, and snother to a friend in 1883, indicate that the loss of her children unhinged her mind.

THE PERSES ON THE SHOOTING.

THE PRESS ON THE SHOOTING.

The Standard, referring to the shooting of

The Perrs on the shooting of Rosea, says:

"It is not unnatural to suppose that the attack will evoke a spark of pity. In taking the law into her own hands, Mrs. Endley followed Rossa's precept, those who live by the sword must perish by the sword. This ought to act as a timely admosisher to those who contemplate adopting the doctrine of private vengeance."

Commenting on the shooting of Rossa by Mrs. Dudley, the Times says:

This man, whose thoughts one would imagine ran from morning until night on the method of murder, at once placed himself in the power of an unknown woman. He now chews the cud of reflection, which must be bitter enough. Mrs. Dudley's act rivals that of Charlotte Corlay.

The Daily News says:
Should the worst befall O'Donovan Rossa, it must be admitted that no one has done more to deserve his fate. But if he should die, some other would immediately spring up to take his place.

The Standard advises Parnell to take the fate of Rossa to heart, and says that stranger things have happened than that Parnell, too, should find his Nemesis.

FOR THE LADY'S RELIEF.

A movement has been started in Nottingham to raise a national fund to pay the expenses necessary to Mrs. Dudley's defense. A circular is being distributed urgently requesting the people of Great Britain to contribute to this fund, "to defend Mrs. Dudley, that heroic Exclish women who resolved to rid civiliza-the people of Great Britain to contribute to this fund, "to defend Mrs. Dudley, that heroic English woman, who resolved to rid civilization of its greatest enemy. Every Englishman," the appeal says, "should be ready to afford Mrs. Dudley every legal assistance."

MES. DUDLEY TALES.

NEW YORK, February 4.—Mrs. Dudley was interviewed to-day by a reporter, to whom she stated that many of the stories published concerning her are made up of a tissue of lies. "The reporters on this side of the water," said Mrs. Dudley, "seem to be much more injentive than the English reporters. I cannot, for my part, see the need of making up sensational articles from such an insignificant affair. Why couldn't the newspapers dismiss it with a paragraph?"

"The papers this morning print dispatches from London stating that you were confined in Hayward's Heath insane asylum for a year for attempting suicide. Is this report correct?"

"You have no right to ask such a question," said Mrs. Dudley, impertinently. "But I will say that I never was confined in an English prison of any kind. The newspapers on the other side ought to know better than to print such stuff. If one was to believe what they say about me I would indeed be an impossible character."

"How about the report that you are a spy, and an employe of the English government"—

"How about the report that you are a spy, and an employe of the English government"

Mrs. Dudley laughed as she replied—"And gave a champagne supper to certain English barristers supposed to be in sympathy with the dynamite movement? I do not admit or deny that I ever did such a thing or acted as a spy. If John Boyle O'Reilly, who thinks I am Mrs. Tyler, will come to the Tombs he will have the privilege of identifying me if he can. Until he does that he had better not give out any more stories."

THE DAY WITH ROSSA.

How the Dynamiter Continues to Heal and Swell.

New York, February 4.—O'Donovan Rossa passed a comfortable night in the Chambers street hospital last night. This morning he was allowed to leave his bed and promenade in the corridors. A number of his friends called on him in the early morning hours. The bullet has not yet been extracted from his back. Rossa's office, in Centre street, is open to-day and is filled with his Irish friends who were entertained by Rossa's secretary and factotum, Pat Joyce.

The Chambers street hospital surgeons report that Rossa is doing well, and will in a few days be able to leave the hospital.

At about 3:20 o'clock this afternoon, O'Donovan Roessa, at the suggestion of his wife, was removed from the Chambers street hospital to St. Vincent hospital, which is under charge of the sisters of merey. There he was given a private room and was made as comfortable as possible. The bullet is still, embedded in his back.

CRIME IN ROME.

Liquor Gives the Police Plenty of Work to Do. Reme, Ga., February 4.—[Special.]—A white man named Keeting was arrested to day, charged with robbing his companion of $206 in gold and silver while the two were lodging in a stable here this morning. Keeting claims that both were drunk and did not know what they were doing. He is now in jail awaiting trial.

The policemen had a lively time to-day. This afternoon Officer Lumpkin attempted to arrest a negro charged with unmercifully beating a woman The negro resisted, wrenched the officer's club from him, and dealt him several hard blows. The officer finally recaptured his club and punished the negro severely. A little later Officer Prather arrested another negro, who was drunk and disorderly, when the latter also resisted, and a severe scuffle ensued. The officer finally prevailed and placed the pris oner in the calabo

A Grand Demonstration in Favor of Probi-

Tomlin, of Cartersville, Ga., a diressed a large audience here, to-day, on the question of the prohibition of the liquor traffic in Gordon county. It would be futile to attempt even a synopsis of Dr. Felton's address. Many of the citizens of Gordon, who have heard often, say that his effort was one of the very best they ever heard nim make. Indeed, it was replete with all the logical deductions, rhetorica and oratorical beauties and eloquence characteris 1ic of the distinguished orator and scholar.

The courthouse was filled to the utmost capacity, and for two hours and fifteen minutes the au-dience was stirred to convulsive applause and enthusiasm by his eloquence, or moved to silence by his delineation of the silence by his delineation of the evils growing out of the liquor traffic.

some of which were most touching.

Rev. Tomlin's address was one of great merit, and was received with marked attent culiarly severe upon that class of individuals calling themselves church members, who could and would vote to sustain the liquor traffic with all its attendant evils. It is the general impression that much good was accomplished for the "dry ticket" by to-day's work. Rev. Tomlin will addre the people of the Sonora district to-day. Dr. Felton will address the people of Fairmount distric Thursday week, and from now until after the 16th of the present month, the claims of prohibition for Gordon county will be advocated by able and distinguished speakers. The prohibitionists are jubilant over the outlook, and from the demonstrations of yesterday's work, justly so. The liquo traffic in Gordon county will soon be a thing of the past. The handwriting has appeared upon the wall, and its doom is most assuredly inevita-ble.

The Savannah News tells the following curious story:

Mrs. E. J. Manning, a middle-aged woman with a very red face, and her daughter, Alice, a plump, good looking young girl, had a hearing before Justice Molina, charged by John Fleming with kidnapping his son Edward 8. Fleming, by maliciously chicing him away from his home. Mr. and Mrs. Fleming were witnesses in the case, and at times became so much excited that they had to be called to order by the court. The young woman seemed to look upon the trial as a kind of farce, and frequently laughed when her prosecutors were delivering their most damaging evidence. Mrs. Manning regarded it in a more serious light, and appeared to appreciate the gravity of the charge ggainst her, the punishment for which is confinement in the penitentiary for not less than four

After that he again disappeared and went away on a boat, but returned last Sonday night and was a third time found by witness in a house in which the Mannings have rooms, on the corner of Bryan and Habersham streets. The witness went there about twelve o'clock at night, with Constable Charles Brown, and had a warrant for Edward's arrest. They found the boy in a room in the third story, sitting on a box. He had no clothes on, except his pants, undershirt and socks. The room had no bed or furniture in it, and could only be reached by a flight of steps leading up from the rooms occupied by the Mannings. Mrs. Fleming testified that she went to the house of Mrs. Manning several times, and found the boy there. She warned Mrs. Manning not to harbor him or entice him away from his home. Charles Brown testified that he acted as special constable the night they found the boy at the house on Bryan and Habersham streets. He corroborated the father's story regarding the place and condition in which he was found. In rendering his decision Justice Molina stated that while he sympathized with Mr. and Mrs. Fleming, yet to make out a case of kidnapping under the statute, "malice, fraud or force" must be shown, and as this had not been done he was compelled to discharge the defendants.

composed of unusuary good material. Among its presentments are to be found the following paragraphs:

This body being composed of representatives largely from the rural districts of the county, have had an opportunity of learning the financial condition of its farmers and farming interests. We have great reason to feel thankful and grateful to the Great Giver of all good, that the people of Bartow are emerging from the panic of 1883-81, and that business of every description promises activity in the near future. While there is great complaint of the scarcity of monoy there is an abundance of grain and provender to supply the necessities of the county until another harvest; but that prosperity may be assured, we would respectfully advise the most rigid economy; raise plenty of corn, oats, elover and everything required on a farm, and then, with cotton as a surplus crop, plenty and prosperity may be expected and fully assured. Good roads are truly the index and auxiliaries to the prosperity of a country, and we would urge those in authority to see to it that the roads in the county are put in first-class order during the year. We are glad to be able to report increased interest manifested upon the subject of education. We attribute much of this interest to the untiring and efficient management of the county school commissioner. There were 93 schools taught in the county during the year 1884, and there was disbursed to teachers $5,702.66 out of the common school fund. The number of white children taught in the common schools of the county during the year was 2,508; colored children, 1,108; making a total of 3,616. Many children of the school age failed to avail themselves of its benefits. In view of the crowded condition of the deckets in the superior court and the great and necessary expense in the trial of cases in said court, we ask our representatives to secure such legislation as will atolism the present court and establish in its stead a city court for the whole county, with civil jurisdiction from one hundr

What an efficient tax receiver may accomplish is shown in the case of Mr. H. T. Cooper, of Douglas county, who has by properly questioning, raised the assessment of that county fully half a million dollars. Applying an equal increase in the 137 counties of the state would give $68,000,000. Applying the same rate of increase according to the real wealth of the counties would give over $250,-000,000. And it is not until vigilant officers shall have brought about such a result that the burden of taxation shall be equalized. The grand jury of Douglas has this to say: As the ordinary has it in his power either to grant or refuse to grant liquor license, we recom-mend that he refuse all applications for such li-cense in the future.

From the Carnesville, Ga., Register

One of the oldest records of court pro ings in this county, is a fi. fa. in favor of Moses Payne against William Wofford for the sum of eighteen pounds, five shillings and nine pence, lawful money of this state, as principal, and two pounds, sixteen shillings for costs. The fi. fa. was issued October twentyr fifth, 1796, by J. H Little, clerk of the inferio-court. It was levied on four hundred acres of n the 12th day of October, 1796, by Samuel Lauhridge, deputy sheriff. The land was claimed by Benjamin Wofford, whose claim affidavit was sworn to before James Terrell, J. P. The deputy sheriff made an entry that the sale of the land was postponed by the claim of Benjamin Wofford and the illegality of defendant. The records do not show how the case terminated.

One of the oldest declarations on record is the case of William Means against John Fergus, brought by Thos. P. Carnes, plaintiff's attorney. The action was brought on a receipt dated May 22nd 1692, and for the sum of ninety dollars. Fergus acknowledged the receipt of eight dollars in cash and one rifle gun valued at ten pounds trading rates, the money to be returned in one year, and also the gun with reasonable hire or its value in money. Process was issued by John Smith, C. S. C. on the 15th day of Nov. 1797, requiring the defendant to appear at the next term of the superior court to be held on the 17th day of April 1798. The defendant was served with a copy on the 22nd day of Nov. 1797 by H. Terrel sheriff.

In the years 1796 and '97 the superior was presided over by Judge William Stephens, from whom Stephens creek took its name. In February 1798 Thos. P. Carnes went upon the bench and held the position for several years. he was sgain judge about 1811 or '12. The attorneys whose names appear on the record in 1797 and '98 are Thos. P. Carnes, Peter Early, Micajah Williams, J. Habby, Van Allen, P. Allen, A. Marth, William Jan, and Dooly, who was afterwards a judge. The names of Carnes, Early, Dooly and Walton are historic in Georgic and was averaged that historic in Georgia and we may conclude that the bar was rather an able one. John Smith held the office of C. S. C. for many years. He wrote a plain smooth hand, almost as legible as print. The paper was unruled, but the lines go straigh across the book, at equal dis-tances apart, and there is hardly a blot or illegible word to be found.

The Covington Route,

From the Covington, Ga., Star, For some time we have heard but little dis cussion of our new railroad project. Last Sep-tember we had a railroad meeting and organ-ized a company, with Mr. J. T. Corley as president. Since that time we have but little about the new company. We know what it is doing, but suppose the mittee on subscriptions have been at mittee on subscriptions have been at work. We learn from Mr. Thomas Camp that about $40,000 have been subscribed, but more than that is wanted. The parties who want to build the read are anxious for our citizens to subscribe a larger sum, in order that we may show our appreciation of the work. They are ready to build the road, and those who sub scribe for the stock will not be required to pay for the same until the road is built. seems to be a very fair proposition, and if want a railroad connection with the R mond and Danville system, now is the time to get it. Mr. Camp says he will be one of the five men to subscribe $5,000 toward it. This is a very liberal proposition, and we trust he may find the other four men without trouble. If the subscription is not increased to about $75,000, we fear the parties who are proposing to build the road will abandon the Covington route and seek another one. Let us do all we can to get the road.

Smallpox in Thomson, From the McDuffie, Ga., Journal. We are glad to announce that there is now little fear of the spread of the disease in Thomson. To the present writing nine cases have been developed, four whites and five colored, besides one, a young white lady in the country, who contracted the disease in Thomson. All of the afflicted are rapidly recovering, those in Mrs. Casey's family almost entirely well. Seven others whites and three blacks, have had fevers and other symptoms, and a few of them have had some faint eruptions, but now are about well. Yesterday, (Tues-day), one of these, a negro developed with day, one of these, a negro developed with numerous cruptions, but no danger is ap-prehended of his death. The disease is re-markably mild, and the physicians and au-thorities have it now fully under control. Those afflicted have been strictly quarantiaed, and an epidemic is practically impossible. Nearly all excitement and apprehension have died out, and we hope, in a few days more, business and special intercorre will be entirely business and social intercourse will be entirely restored.

More Railroad Building.

From the Charlotte Observer. Among the many railroad projects now or Among the many railroad projects now on foot in this state, the one that seems to have the most solid foundation is the proposition to build a short line from Wilson via Fayetteville, to Florence, S. C. Colonel R. R. Bridgers, president of the Wilmington and Weldon railroad, has been in Fayetteville, it is stated, to give his personal stitention to a survey of to give his personal attention to a survey of the new line, which, by the way, will be an important link in the Atlantic coast line. Wilson is on the Wilmington and Weldon road, and starting from that point the new read, and starting from that point the new line will run nearly due south to Fayetteville, through much undeveloped country, with lit-tle or no grading to be done. It will save many miles run via Wilmington, and will form a southern short line in opposition to Moncure Robinson's line from Petersburg, Va., via Ridgeway, Raleigh and Hamlet, N. C., to Cheraw, S. C.

Cancer Cured,

Mrs. Oliver Hardman, an old resident of Walton county, and a lady of culture and prominence, has this to say of the treatment of cancer with Swift's

Over filteen years ago a cancer made its appear ance on my face. It was treated with plasters, and the core came out. The place healed up after some time, and seemingly my face was well. However, in a few years it returned again with more volence than ever. It gave me a great deal of pain. The former remedy seemed to do it no good. Knowing the disease to run in the family, having had one sister to die with cancer, I became seri ously apprehensive of my condition. It continued to increase in size and virulence. I almost gave up all hope of ever being cured. The physicians advised the use of the knife and caustic. This was more than I could bear, and refused to have it operated upon in that way. All other remedies were used, but the cancer continued to grow worse. The pain was excruciating, and my life was a burden. In this extremity my son, Dr. Hardman, recommended me to try Swift's Specific. It was the last resort, but I was so prejudiced st the use of patent medicines, and especially this one, that I hesitated some time. At last I gave my consent, not believing there was any virme in it. The first bottle only increased the size of the sore, and the discharge from it, and hence did not inspire me with any hope. On taking the second bottle there were signs of improvement, and my faith strengthened just in propor tion to that improvement The spot on my face began to decrease, as well as the discharge, and hope sprang up in my heart. Could it be, I asked myself, that I was at last to be relieved of this disease? It has given me so many dark hours in the past that the idea of being well again almost overpowered me. There was a contest between hope and fear for a long time. It was a long night of weeping, but joy came with the morning. There is nothing left to mark the place but a small scar. and I feel that it is impossible for me to express my gratitude for this great deliverance. It is a wonderful medicine. MRS. OLIVER HARDMAN.

Science Astonished.

I have known much of the use of Swift's Specific. There are many in this community, well known citizens, who were victims in their early life, and who have taken S. S., and are now to all appearances and their own belief, as free from taint of disease as the first man, fresh from his Maker. Delicacy forbids their public recom-mendations, but I am allowed to refer to the skeptic privately to those who will endorse everything that can be said in its favor. Being pro-Resionally much opposed to endorsing secret remedies, it is with hesitation I attach my name to this article, but I know whereof I speak when I say that our science has not yet made public a combination equal to S. S. S. for the purpose indi T. L. MASSENBURG, Ph. G., Macon, Ga.

Patent Medicines,

As a rule, have the reputation of imposing on the dulity of the public in the shape of adroitly oncected advertisements, and other devices to alch the eye of those who are suffering. But we esire-to say that Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) is a decided exception to this rule. This remedy is ectured in Atlanta, Ga.; and in our treatise on Bleed and Skin diseases we give the endorsement of many of the prominent people of our city and state. It is true we are spending a large amount in advertising, for we think it our duty to humanity to do so. The wonderful developon humanity to do so. The wonderful development in the treatment of Cancer alone, would make it our duty to have it known to every sufferer in the world. A WOMAN DESPERADO.

A DEAD SHOT WITH A REVOLVER AND VERY FOND OF A FIGHT.

Daring a Whole Farty of Men to Stand Out Singly and Fight Her-In jail for Clubbing another Woman Who had Betrayed HerFut a Bullet Through His Heart,

ALILINE, Tex., Jan. 30-Maud Raynor, the weman desperado, is in jail in this city for assault. She is wanted in a dozen places, and had several complaints against her before the one on which she is now held was lodged. She lived here quietly until a woman who was jealcus of her revealed her identity to the police. As seen as she found that she was an object of suspicion she attacked her enemy with a club and almost beat her brains out. Maud Raynor has been a notorious character in this state, the Indian Territory and Kansas for several years. She gained the title of woman desperado by reason of her recklesness of human life and her fondness for fights. She goes armed to the teeth, shoots with unerring aim, and is quite as much at home with a bowie knite or a club as with a revolver. She has managed to eas with a revolver. as with a revolver. She has managed to escape arrest hitherto by reason of the fact that all manner of stories concerning her have been in circulation, and her actual appearance is very different from the idea which the peo is very different from the idea which the peo-ple generally have formed of her. She is of compact frame and about medium height, with a graceful carriage. Her features are small, her eyes steel gray, and her hair long and abundant. In jail to-day she was raving because her keepers had taken away her pis-tels and knives.

"I suppose I'll never see them again." she said. "When you get into one of these calabashes they always help themselves to what you've got, and whether you're sent up or not they keep all they steal. I'll bet I've furnish-ed ha't the sheriffs in Texas and Kansas with good weapons in the last five years. They dent get money enough together at one time to buy such things, but they know just enough to pinch them when they get a chance. I played it on a detective up here in the Panhendle once. He had been following me for about a month, and finally when he got me he took two guns and three knives away from them, and I says to him:

"'You'll be well heeled now won't you?"

"You'll be well heeled now won't you?"
"He pretended that he didn't care anything about the weapons, and showed me some of his old firecracker pistols, and wanted me to admire them. I told him one of my guns was worth a bag full of his, and after getting him a little excited I grabbed one of my weapons to show it to him, I pointed out several of the good points, and then turning it on him I

'I want to see your heels right lively now."
"He thought I was fooling for a second, but when the pis of clicked he knew it was business. Then he backed off, and wanted to trade with me. I had his guns and mine, too, but I told him I wasn't trading. Just to hurry him up a little I sent a bullet mighty close to his ear, and a moment later as he was edge. ing off I put another one near enough to his o his ear, and a moment later as he was other ear to singe his hair. Such running you never saw. I watched film out of sight. Then I took his guns and threw them in the river. I wouldn't have been found dead with then

Maud Raynor went through the Indian Territory once with about a regiment of Indi-ans and white men on her trail. She had been up at a ranch on the Arkansas river, where a great many desperate characters were congregated, and in a shooting affray in which she took a prominent part the barten-der was killed. Every man swore that the woman was the guilty party, and she recklesly admitted it, though it is probable she was not the real offender. Some triends of the murdered man came along just then, and organized to lynch her. Getting wind of the programme, she stole a horse, and set out for Kansas, the men following. Sever-al Indians joined the pursuing party at various places, until finally there were about bundred men on her trail. She managed to elude them for several days, and coming final ly upon a band of chivalrous cowboys, she made them believe she was appraecuted inno-cent. Her new-found friends promptly agreed to defend her against all comers, and when her persuers came in sight they were met by wolley which brought them to a stand. In the course of three or four days they concluled to abandon the search.

The exploit of which she is proudest occurred a year or more ago in the Indian territory. She had been up in Kansas on the warpath, and making her way back to Texas had Callen in with a rough crowd of plainsme One of these was a man named Dutton who be had known many years before. In the course of an evening passed at a ranch on the cattle trail, she had a quarrel with this fellow, and after some harsh words he rushed at her with a kurfe. She was too quick for him. He had hardly got in striking distance before she put a bullet through his heart. As he jumped in the air and fell back dead, his comrades made a rush at the woman, and would have finished her then and there if one of the men had not keen her court in a wild sort of a way. had not taken her part in a mild sort of a way. As they stopped to parley, she made this prop

ositition:
"I'll fight the whole pack of you, one at a time. I killed that man, and I'm glad of it.

I ought to have done it years ago.".
One man went out with her, and the two stepped off twenty paces, turned and fired. The man got a bullet in his shoulder, and wanted to quit. The woman was unburt. Standing there resolutely she called on the others for a victim, but no one stirred. Then she taunted them, and finally, when she found that they were not disposed to annoy her furth

"Now I'm going to Texas, and I want an esort. How many of you are going with me?"

They all agreed to go but two, and to those

They all agreed to go but two, and to taose two she addressed herself, saying:

"You're just the ones that I want to go with me, and you've got to go, too."

The others rather enjoyed the sport. She never took her pistols off them for a minute. They got her horse out of the corral, mounted their own, and at her command rode on in front of her. When she had driven them ten or fifteen miles she made them turn back, while she rode on toward the south.

Unless the woman is convicted for the assault committed by her in this city the other day, it is not believed that she will be punished for any of her other offenses. * * Delicate diseases of either sex the best lung remedy made. Four of my brothers and sisters had died with consumption, and about three years ago I became so exhausted by a long centinued cough, accompanied with low fever and night sweats, that I could barely get about and my friends gave up all hope. I coughed so incessantly that I could not sleep at all. After rying several lung medicines I began the use of

An Atlanta man never forgets his home. Not all the red glare and pan-beating with which Chicago and Cincinnati charmed him could make Colonel Tom Magill forego the opportunity of passing through Atlanta on Ms way to the crescent city.

WHILE the House and the senate have passed antagonistic measures in regard to railroad management, yet they both point to the control of railway abuses by the government, and it is more than probable that this conviction will resolve itself into statute law.

THE same question can have a widely different meaning under different circumstances. For instance, on the fifth of March the mournful query of the republican office holders, as compared with the ringing shout of the democratic candidates, when each swell the refrain of "What are we here for?"

morning a special car enters the depot, bringing a man of whom it may be said, there is nothing in the town too good for him.

That he is vice-president-elect of the republic gives less reason for the heartiness of his welcome than he is himself. The very affection and enthusiasm that gathers about the man will lessen the formality of the reception of the official. Atlanta never lays much store by the pomp or circumstance that hangs about a guest-and not a bit, when she is in love with the man himself. It is Tom Hendricks that she will welcome this morning not the vice-president. It is the grand old democratic hero who held the western stronghold and led the western hosts-who stood, environed all about by republican majorities but unconquerable himself, beset by every resource of the enemy but entrenched in the love of his peoplehe it is that Atlanta takes to her heart today. She has always kept a warm place there for the great Indianian. During the tremendous struggle of last year on which so much was staked, it was his name that conjured the heartiest cheers, his ringing speech that awoke the echoes, his superb and doubtless leadership that kindled enthusiasm the country over, and his power that filled even the darkest hour with hope. We may search in vain the annals of political strife for the equal of the fight he made in Indiana in the late campaign. In brilliancy, in staunchness, in heroic purpose and achievement, in the inequality of resources, in every point that makes a struggle memorable, it is without parallel. No man could have made that fight who did not hold the absolute love and confidence of his people, and the man who has this, after thirty years of active and conspicuous service, is worthy of all it implies.

In the name of the people of Atlanta, and of the people of Georgia, we bid Mr. Hendricks welcome to the Cracker City-welcome as the vice-president elect of the administration that is to bring the country back to ways of honesty and peace—but more heart ily welcome as the beloved and trusted democratic leader who has fought the good fight

THE NEW SENATORS.

The places of the twenty-five senators whose terms expire March 4 have been filled, except in three cases. In New Hampshire the election takes place in June; in Oregon balloting is now going on, and in Illinois there is a deadlock. In New Hampshire Mr. Blair is a candidate for re-election, but he has sharp opposition, and the result cannot be foreseen. William E. Chandler is one of the aspirants. The contest in Oregon is owing to the impossibility of concentrating the republican majority upon one candidate. No caucus has been held, and a dozen men are voted for. If a caucus should be held Solomon Hirsch, of Portland, would receive the nomination and be elected senator, but without a caucus he cannot muster enough votes. Meloni C. George is his leading opponent, and there are a large number of dark horses, including "Landaulet" Williams, and John H. Mitchell. It impossible to say who will win. The contest in Illinois is a complete muddle and deadlock. Tire chances are in favor of the democrats, but the struggle will probably be long and desperate. Mr. Morrison expects to be the democratic nominee, and he is said to be confident of exchanging his seat in the house for one in the senate.

The new senators on the democratic side will be James K. Jones, who takes Mr. Walker's place. Mr. Jones is now a member of the ways and means committee in the house, where he has served three terms. General Williams, of Kentucky, will be succeeded by Mr. Blackburn, who has been a member of the house many years; Mr. Jonas surrenders his seat to Mr. Eustis, who has served in the senate; Mr. Groom's successor is Judge Wilson, who is new to congressional life, and Mr. Henry B. Payne takes Mr. Pendleton's

The new republican senators are Gavernor Stanford, who displaces Mr. Farley: Mr. Teller, who ousted Mr. Hill; Mr. Evarts, who succeeds Mr. Lapham; Mr. Spooner, of Wisconsin, who takes the seat that Mr. Cameron declined to longer fill, and Mr. Chace, who was elected to fill the unexpired term of Henry B. Anthony. Two more republicans will be elected in Oregon and New Hamp-

If Senator Logan's successor is a demograt the senate will consist of 35 democrats and 41 republicans, including the Virginia readjusters. If a republican is elected or appointed in Illinois, the republican majority in the senate will be eight, provided the two readjusters pull straight in the party harness.

Of the new senators, Blackburn, Chace, Payne, Evarts, Spooner and Teller will be heard from. Mr. Blackburn will have to adapt himself to the quieter methods of the senate, but he will not be a silent man, and he will not be without influence. Mr. Chace is not handsome, but he is a keen debater and generally well-informed. Mr. Payne's age is rather against him, but he will be listned to whenever he speaks. Of Mr. Evarts great things are expected, among republicans, but men of established reputations have never become great senatorial leaders. Mr. pooner has won a high reputation, as a lawyer, in his own state, and his friends think he will make his mark in the senate. Mr. Teller did not make much of a record when he was in the senate, and when he returns to that body he will not be apt to show marked ability in any direction. While the republicans have gained two or three good debaters yet the talking strength of the senate will be very evenly divided between the two parties.

LEGAL OBJECTIONS" TO THE NEGRO. As our readers know, the proposed demoratic policy of giving respectable and intelligent negroes federal offices in the solid republican states, such as Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire and Rhode Island, does not meet with the unqualified approval of the republican organs. Some of them are disposed to regard the proposition as a sort of ungainly and untimely joke invented by the elate democrats for the purpose of pestering the souls of the republican saints who followed the white-plumed knight to defeat.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean, which may be classed among the blood-and-thunder organs of Brother Blaine's lost cause, alludes with some degree of bitterness to the proposal as a measure of retaliation; but "retaliation," as we have already undertaken to show, is a very strong word to use in relation to the appointment of negroes to office in the solid republican states. It has a very serious meaning, and its use by so rabid an organ is exceedingly significant. In the opinion of the Inter-Ocean, if negroes are to be appointed to federal offices in the north, their appointment will be in the nature of "retali-

We are willing to admit that the appointment by the republicans of a parcel of ignorant and vicious carpet-baggers to federal offices in the south after the war was a species of outrage that warrants retaliation; but would the appointment of a number of respectable and intelligent negroes to federal offices in the solid republican states of the north be in the nature of retaliation? The Inter-Ocean plainly declares that it would, and its use of the word plainly indicates that, in its opinion, the appointment of respectable and intelligent negroes to office in republican states would be objectionable to the republicans themselves. The Inter-Ocean may represent the repub lican sentiment of the north, but its remarks are decidedly unjust to the negroes. In the first place, it places them on a level with the rascally carpet-baggers, and, in the second place, it practically puts them on notice that the interest with which the re publican philanthropists regard them depends on the prospective distance lending enchantment to the view in this as in other matters. The republicans may be assured, however, that the democratic policy of appointing negroes to office in the republican states is not conceived in a spirit of retaliation. On the contrary, the intent of it is to place the negroes where they can enjoy the fruits of the great national victory undisturbed by the results of any possible irritation, surrounded and appreciated by their republican sponsors and gaining in a congenial atmosphere a necessary knowledge of the civil service. We know of no more hopeful plan for the recognition and advancement of negroes that are really deserving.

But the Inter-Ocean, not content with belittling the negroes of the south placing them on level with the rascally carpet-baggers, and by attempting to convince them that their presence would be objectionable to the republicans of the north, interposes what it is pleased to term "legal objections." One is that "the | wrongs.

civil service reform act embodies a pro that appointments shall be distributed a the several states and territories as near may be according to population." We have not investigated this matter, but we presume it applies to appointments in the departments at Washington; but, in any event, a democratic president will, perhaps, be pardoned for ignoring, in behalf of the negroes, the strict terms of a law that a republican administration has ignored altogether. Not only has this particular provision, but all the provisions of the civil service reform act have been ignored by the republican presidents. More than this, there are now in office, under republican auspices, men credited to Georgia who were never in the state: and for many years, and even as late as the year 1885, men have held, and are holding federal offices in Georgia, who are Georgians neither in sentiment nor name. We beg to assure the Inter-Ocean that this particular legal objection will not be allowed to stand in the way of the appointment of intelligent and reputable negroes to office in the republican states of the north.

Another "legal objection" advanced by the Chicago Inter-Ocean is that "by a custom of so long standing in federal administration as to have the force of law, the appointees shall be residents as far as possible of the districts in which they are to serve." Whatever may have been the custom before the war, there is no such custom now. It has been ignored by the republicans for twenty years, and today a majority of the federal offices in the south are held by northern men who came south in order to hold office. The "so long standing" of the custom is one of the Inter-Ocean's western jokes, and it only becomes serious when one remembers that it is perpetrated for the avowed purpose of pre venting the appointment of southern negroes to offices in the north. There is and has been no protest on the part of the Inter-Oceen that this "so long standing custom" has been ignored for the purpose of placing carpetbaggers and adventurers in fat offices in the south. Fortunately for the country, and fortunately for the negro, the democratic administration will be managed independently of the desires and suggestions of republican organs, especially such organs as the Inter-Ocean.

THE PUBLIC DEBT STATEMENT. Seven months of the current fiscal year have lapsed, and in that time, as compared with the first seven months of the last fiscal year, receipts have fallen off $16,000,000, while ex penditures have increased $9,000,000. The reported reduction in the public debt of $9.420,000 is simply a matter of bookkeeping and assets, for there was no reduction of the debt in the month of January. No bonds were called and none redeemed except a few that had ceased to bear interest under previous calls. The truth is, the treasury is in no condition to redeem bonds. In seven months we have lost ground to the extent of $24, 000,000. Since January 1 there has been a net loss of gold of over $16,000,000. The amount of gold in the treasury not covered by certificates is now $125,000,000, or less than the treasury has held since August, when the net gold ran down to $120,000,000. It is understood that the secretary of the treasury will not issue another call for bonds during his term of effice, because such a call would operate to still further lessen the stock of treasury gold.

The receipts for January, compared with the corresponding month last year, show a decrease of $2,000,000, the entire loss having been in customs receipts. The following table shows the receipts for the saven months just ended, compared with the corresponding seven months for the last fiscal year:

..$187,001,791 $203,531,153

The expenditures for the same two periods

$90,817,831 40,653,757 34,902,224

The available cash in the treasury has risen to $146,000,000, an increase, since January 1 of about $6,000,000. This fact does not, however, in Mr. McCullock's opinion, justify another call for bonds, because bonds are chiefly presented for redemption at New York, where gold or its equivalent is dis-

WHILE law-abiding people have no use O'Donovan Rossa, it must be admitted that dur ing his seven years imprisonment for a political offense, the cruelty with which he was treated was sufficient to inspire him with the desire for re enge. It is not denied that Rossa was treated with great barbarity. For thirty-five days his bands were tied behind his back. Chains hung from his legs, and he had to eat his food from pan on the floor, just as a dog does. Flies and osquitoes swarmed about his face, and he could not drive them away. A Catholic priest came in to see him one day. He found Rossa bruised, bleeding, broker in spirit. Tears rolled down the face of the holy man when he looked on this wretched sufferen and as Rossa held out his bleeding hands an arms the priest said: "Patience, patience, my son; carry your pain and sorrow to God." Ros was almost mad with pain; he could not be pa tient longer, and the next day he broke his dishes over the head of his commentor. This was terrible treatmen for a political prisoner. But it does not justify Rossa in conspiracy to blow pp innocent women and children, and other people who had nothing to do with his persecution or with Ireland's

A PICTURE sometimes expresses more than could be crowded into columns of description. A recent cartoon in the New York Telegram represents Uncle Sam" towering above agroup of outlaws who are represented as his supporters and under his protection. She Didn't Wear a Jersey,

From the Burlington Hawkeye,
"Does your wife wear a jersey?" blandly asked the smooth tongued dry goods clerk of Farmer Furrow, who was making a few purchases for his better-balf. "Now, look a-here, young feller," said the old granger, with a look of mingled sco and ferocity, "don't yer be too fresh. I may be countryman, but I'll be durned if I'll take an guff from yer." "Why, I didn't mean anything timidly retorted the clerk, "I merely asked your wife wore a jersey." "Well, sir, it that's your wife wore a jersey." "Well, sir, it the yer want to know, I'll tell yer. She milks and feeds 'em, and waters 'em, but, by go doesn't wear 'em, confound yer protur!"

MACON, February 4 .- [Special.] - J. A. Miller, the chants, claims most persistently that he is a dupe of Heward Sexby, the Cincinnati advertising sgent, whom he elsimed to have represented. He This morning he told his story as follows:

I am honest, so help me God. My name is Joe A. Miller, and was born in Newport, Ky. My father's name is George Miller, a blacksmith centected with the machine shops of Lawrence Roth, Eighth street, Cincinnati, Ohio. I was in the hardware business there with an uncle nomed J. Cramer. I met Saxby in Louis rille, Kentucky, about a year ago. He was setting out an advertising chart of the St. Louis Air-Line railroad, and came to my hotel and asked me if I would accept a position as canvassing agent, that he would give me twenty-five per cent of my collections. I worked for him in Louisville on a fire alarm card for ten days. I then went to Indianapolis, Indiana, and worked for advertisements for the United States Rainoad Record, edited by him. We came to chio, working Cincinnati for the paper. He then asked me if I would come to the south. I wanted to travel, so told him I would, cleame to Lexington, Ky., got out an express list, and next went to Nashville, got out rules and regulations of the Commercial hotel, then went to Chattanooga. Tenn. While there he gave me the Wrenn letters and telegrams to work up the maps, telling me to go absend and have the proofs of the advertisements set up, and after collecting, forward him the money and he would have the maps printed in Knoxyllle, as Mr. Wrenn had his work there. A BLIND COTTON POOL.

How the Ewen Bros, of New York Worked It.

New York, February 4.—President A. C. Cheney, of the Garfield National bank, tells how he forced a big profit out of the Ewen Bros. for a customer in one of their "blind pools." The firm were cotton brokers, and had seats in the cotton exchange until the exposure of their methods of business compelled flight. Mr. Cheney's testimony shows up the manner of the trap, and the ease with which gudgeons were caucht in it.

"A friend of mine," he said, "told me one day that he had a right good thing—something that would multiply an investment in a few months—and he was willing to let me in. He explained that the Ewens were working some blind pools in cotton. He had let them have $5,000 three weeks before, and they had already reported that $9,000 were credited to him in the account. Of course I knew it was an impossible business operation. Operators in cotton are quite willing to ship Operators in cotton are quite willing to ship the staple half round the world on the chance of clearing a cent a pound by the trouble and risk, and here was a concern reaping profits entirely unknown to the business, and that, the for the envisionment of others. too, for the enrichment of others.

I learned that there was a craze in a certain circle of merchants for depositing their money with the Ewens for these suppositious pools. But my friend wouldn't believe it was a humbug. I was bound to save his cash in spite of him, if it could be done. I induced him to him, if it could be done. I induced him to leave his receipt for the original investment of $5,000, and also to let me have the written statement of the Ewens that his share of the profits in that particular pool were $4,000 Then I went down to their office. I told them who I was, and said that I wished to draw the whole $9,000 represented by the papers. They demurred that the operation was not yet complete, and assented that the final settlement, in a month or so, would yield considerable more. I replied that they might go ahead with their speculation only in case they paid me instantly, for otherwise I would expose them, and there would be an end of their scheme. They were not quite ready to shut up shop and They were not quite ready to shut up shop and dee. They paid me in full, and my friend chared the $4,000. But he wouldn't credit me with deing him a good turn until, not ten days later, the explosion came and everybody with money in the blind pools lost it. The aggregate of money invested for all time with this firm is known to reach $200,000, and the sum total may easily be twice as much, because most of the victims are not disposed to confess their toolishness while there is no prospect of regaining anything. The magnitude of the operations is far greater than was at first thought. Many of the losers are women, who were by agents made to believe at first the ulous stories of sudden wealth through the Ewens.

Incomes of English Doctors.

From the New York Evening Post. Apropos of doctors, the English professional journals have been telling wonderful stories about the fees of English physicians. The Students' Journal says Sir Andrew Clarke makes over $75.000 a year, which the Medical Journal says is strictly true. Others add that Dr. Redellife used to make an average annual income of $35,000 a year, and Dr. Baille $50,000; that Sir Astley Cooper took $5,000 in a singlee fee; that some other doctor got $10,000 for going to Pau from London; that Catharine II. of Russia paid Dr. Dimsdale $50,000 for vaccinating her. The Paris Temps thinks all this English boasting very immodest and unprofessional, and intimates that no French doctor would allow such facts about his pecuniary gains to become known. It observes, however, in order to give some idea of what French doctors could reveal if they choose, that it is within its personal knowledge that Nelaton on one occasion refused $80,000 to go to St. Petersburg to perform a very simple operation. Journal says Sir Andrew Clarke makes over $75.

GRANTED TO CONGRESSMEN FOR

The True Story of What Has Been Ulaimed to be a Greatly Abused Privilege-The Allowance of $125 Not Restricted to Stationery Butto be Used at Will, Etc., Etc.

WASHINGTON, February 4 .- [Special.]-The law

under which members of consress, both in the senate and house, are allowed to purchase stationery and various other articles at the public expense was exacted in the second session of the expense was enacted in the second session of the fortieth congress as a reform of the franking privilege. Previous to that time members were allowed to fiank all letters and any other matter they chose to send through the mails. This privilege was abused in various ways until congress abridged it so that it could apply only to doou vents of a public nature and to seeds fornished by the department of spriculture. In theu of the privilege of figuriting, it ters there was accorded to each member a stationery fund of $125 a year. While many members do not need so much to meet all the demands of their necessary correspondence with their constituents, there are many others who spend more than this amount. After the enactment of the present law, the entire stationery fund was placed in the hands of two clerk of the house, who opened an account with each member. The stationery come was established as a matter of convenience, and in pursuance of an established theory of congress, which has placed in both wings of the capitol various appliances for economy of the time of the members. They go to the capitol various appliances for economy of the time of the members. They go to the capitol various appliances for economy of the time of the members to have bunch. To go to their hotels or to the city restannants, get lunch and return to the capitol would require an hour or more. Consequently restaurants were established in both wings of the capitol. A member may step down stairs, procare lunch in a few mioutes, and be constantly width the call of the house. For the same reason the bath rooms were established, they being as necessary to a decent may step down stairs, procare lunch in a few mioutes, and be constantly width the call of the house. For the same reason the bath rooms were established, they being as necessary to a decent may step down stairs, procare lunch in a few mioutes, and be constantly width the call of the house. For the same reason the bathershops he pays for what he gets out of his own pocket. He does the sa fortieth congress as a reform of the franking privi-lege. Previous to that time members were allow-out of his allowance of $5,000 a year as salary, or out of his allowance of $5,000 a year as salary, or recan give her an order on the stationery room for the article desired and have it charged to his account. If he chooses to de none of these things he can leave his seat in the house or senate, draw a check on the sergeant at arms, get it cashed and go down town, promenade around and take an hour to do the very thing he could do in two minutes within the wails of the capitol. The only difference in the trapsactions is the length of time required from the work of the house or the senate. The stationery room stands exactly on the same footing as the restaurant or the, barbershop.

It is said a congressman is not to blame for purchasing articles in this room, provided he does not exceed his allowance. He can no more exceed his stationery allowance than be can exceed his salary. The law expressly declares that if his stationery account should exceed $125 the excess shall be deducted from his salary or his mileage. If a member purchases $10 worth of goods in the stationery room during the year he is given an itemized statement of his purchases and $115 in cash, which balances his account for that year. If his purchases amount to $135 he is given an itemized statement and $10 is deducted from his monthly pay account, in addition to the $125 allowed by law for stationery purposes.

The clerk of the house makes his annual report to the house, and the secretary of the senate makes his annual report to the senate makes his annual report to the senate classure these efficers are charged with the disbursement of the stationery fund of the two houses, and want to show how the money placed in their hands has been applied. This is the whole matter.

NEW YORK STOCKS. Stocks as Reported in the New York Stock

NEW YORK, February 4.—The stock market was again strong this morning and sold off a frac-tion during the middle of the day and again strong and advancing in the afternoon, while the busi-ness transacted was the largest that has been reported for sometime past, aggregating 337,000 shares. Over sixty per cent of the business was in Lackawanna and St. Paul. It is again reported that there is considerable probability of a settlement between West Shore and New York Central, which, if accomplished cannot fail to have a stimulating effect upon the market. Under an influence of the bear raid during midday, Lackawanna sold down 11/8 per cent, but it recovered all its loss in the afternoon, closing % per cent higher than vesterday. St. Paul and Northwest responded to favorable reports respecting the enormous tonnage which is being offered to the railroads throughout the west and northwest and established decided gains, Rock Island and Union Pacific % per cent; Pacific Mail 3/4 per cent, and Central Pacific % per cent. It was announced that the Wabash reorganization is making favorable progress and that all the conflicting interests are likely to become reconciled within a few days. Among the stocks which have shown declines of a small fraction are Louisville and Nashville; Northern Pacific: Reading; New Jersey Central; and Delaware and Hudson. THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movemen.s in Grain and Produce.

By telegraph to The Constitution. CHICAGO, February 4-To-day's markets in a general way were featureless, and during the bulk of the morning session were lifeless as well, all except the wheat pit being at times almost deserted. A spurt of activity sprung up in the afternoon, when wheat was actively bulled on weather reports of crop damages, futures closing firm at the advance. The markets closed extremely bullish on the afternoon board with prices 2c over yesterday. Wheat opened 3/2c higher than yesterday, but later became very quiet, dull and heavy, nothing being done on any side. This want of support eased the market off from 1/8 1/2c, but about noon a brisk bull movement sprang up on reports of damage to winter wheat, and 1c advance from the lowest point was recorded, with active covering by shorts. The advance was all sustaine?. No. 2 spring was quoted at 744@78% and No. 2 red winter at 79%c. Other causes of strength were higher cables toward the close of the morning session, as well as advices from New York that exporters were taking to cash, and the report that England had mobilized 20,000 troops for use in Egypt. The close at 1 o'clock was strong at outside figures. To-morrow's receipts are estimated

Corn ruled very dull early in the day, in sympathy with wheat, though not falling below the ing which was at an advance over vesterday's in wheat had a strengthening influence on corn and advanced long futures. No. 2 cash was quoted nominally at 33%c. To-morrow's receipts are esti-

Oats continued quiet with very little doing in a speculative way, fluctuations in favor of futures being confined to %c. One hundred and eighty cars are expected to-morrow.

Provisions opened a shade higher in response to a little better market at the yards, but soon be-came flat and lifeless, continuing so until well on toward the close, when the became more active and firmer. All fluctuations were confined to narrow limits, and cash quotations were nominally the same as February. Little was done except in futures. The close of the morning session was about

THE FIRM OF A. B. STEELE & CO. WAS DIS solved by mutual consent January I, 1885. A B. Steele withdraws, having sold his entire interest in the business to his former partner, Mr. G. V. Gress. The business of the old firm will be closed up by A. B. Steele, who will collect and pay all bills.

A. B. STEELE, G. V. GRESS.

In severing my connection with above firm, I take pleasure in saying to all patrons and the public generally that the business will be continued as of old by Mr. G. V. Gerss, who will fill all contracts entrusted to him with usual promptness and satisfaction.

Thanking the public for their generous patronage in the past. I bespeak for my successor a liberal share in the future. Respectfully, thurs we will be a supported by the same contraction.

Threats were made against Mr. Haygood, and yesterday Tom Francis appeared at the courthouse and occupied a bench in the corridors. Mr. Haygood was scated in the sheriff's office writing. The young man sat watching him through the open door for some time. His peculiar actions attracted the attention of Sheriff Thomas. When Mr. Haygood arose and started into the city courtroom Francis followed him, and Sheriff Thomas decided that he would better interfere. the Chattahoochee river, discovered day on the Chattahoochee river, discovered day before yesterday a plot among the convicts for a general mutiny and stampede. On Sundays when the convicts are idle they are given to plotting schemes for escape, and it seems in this instance they were led by three very desperate criminals. T. L. Strickland, better known at the camp as "Foggetty," who is in from Harvis country for five very seen for largenty. from Harris county for five years for larceny, and two negroes named Pat Reese and James

When the plot was discovered the information was telephoned in and Mr. Wes Murphy called on Captain Nelms and they drove out to the camp Everything was then quiet. Captain Nelms called up the convicts, seventy-five of whom had been concerned in the plot, and gave them a very emphatic lecture on the error of their ways. Captain Nelms informed the convicts that he would see that they were properly cared for, and he would see also that they do the r duty toward the lessees. He then gave orders to the whipping boss to give each of the ring leaders a sound thrashing, and when sundown came the licks were well laid on. In speaking of the matter Captain Nelms said vesterday:

Nelms said yesterday:
"There was no excuse in the world for any such action on the part of the convicts, as they are well treated. The trouble is, I have had to have some dealings with the camp that were seemingly in favor of the convicts, and they got an idea that I would protect them in any sort of mennness that they cared to go into. I took occasion to disabuse their minds of any such idea,"

TECHNOLOGICAL TRAINING. Something About One of the World's Fa-

Mr. Quintard Peters, who is now spending a few days with his parents in Atlanta, gives a highly favorable account of the Massachusetts institute of technology, in Boston, where he is taking an industrial course. Mr. Peters is a manly, talented youth, and an interesting talker. A short time ago he made up his mind to take a technological instead of a classical course, and his experience thus far has tended to make him well satisfied with his choice. mous Industrial Schools.

"Who is your president?"

"The first president of the school was its founder, Wm. B. Rogers. Francis A. Walker, the eminent political economist, is now at its head."

head."
"And the attendance?"
"Very satisfactory. During the first year of the institutions existence it had seventy-two students. At present it has 766 in regular attendance. The number of instructors during the first year was ten, and at the session of 1884-5 we have 57. "Are the students mainly from New Eng-

"That was the case until within the last three years. We now have representatives of thirty-three different states, and thirty-three of these are from eight southern states, four being Georgians. President Walker is very much pleased with the southern students. In his fast report he paid quite a compliment to their manly deportment, application and progress in their studies."

What is embraced in the course of stud-"After the first year, during which there is but one general preparatory course, the student may take his choice of civil engineering, mechanical engineering, mining engineering, architecture, chemistry, electrical engineering architecture, chemistry, electrical engineering natural history, biology, preparatory to the study of medicine, physics, a general course preparatory to any practical business or profession, or a special two years' course in architecture. The school of mechanic arts is also a two years' course combining the ordinary high school studies with mechanical drawing and the practical use of hand and machine tools. In the the various courses the regular recitations and lectures are accompanied by practical work in the laboratory, drawing room, shop, etc. The object of the school's foundation was to fit its students for all the practical walks of life, as well as to furnish a thorough grounding in theoretic science."

"The school may then be considered an established success?" "Certainly. And the proof may be found in the prominent positions taken by its grad-uates in all the great enterprises of the coununtes in all the great enterphase.

No one can talk with Mr. Peters on this subject without becoming convinced of the advantages of a thoroughly equipped, well-managed school of technology. As Georgia contemplates the early establishment of such an institution, it is probable that the plan and scope of the famous Massachusetts school will be well studied by those having the matter in the same.

TWO MENKILLED.

THE ACCIDENT TUESDAY NIGHT

A Cab and Twenty-five Cars Get on the Wild Sched-ule and Collide With an Engine-The Cars Badly Used up-The Fireman and a Tramp Killed-The Engineer Hort

The accident on the East Tennessee road near McDonough Tuesday night resulted in the death of two men.

The accident happened at Camp's creek trestle at half-past twelve o'clock. Freight train No. 22 in two sections was en route to Atlanta. The first section was made up of about thirty cars and was in charge of Conductor John Henry with Engineer Bellows at the throttle. The second section was fully as large a train. Conductor John Mc-Ginty handled the bell cord, while Engineer Wysong was on the engine. The second sec-

TWENTY-THREE MINUTES behind the first section when the trains left McDonough. Four miles north of McDonough the first section stopped at a station called Flippen to put some empty cars on a side track. There were five of the empties, and track. There were five of the empties, and when they were uncoupled the engine pulled away for the switch. Of course the train was left on the main track. The grade at that point is very heavy, and as the train hands failed to "set up" brakes enough the train soon began to move. There were twenty-five cars and the cab. At first the motion was almost imperceptible, but with each revolution of the wheels the speed increased until the train began shooting through the air. The grade was to the south; and back towards McDonough the wild cars rolled until the collision happened.

Just one and a half miles north of McDonough is the Camp creek trestle. This trestle with no thought of the impending danger. When his train was near the treatle he sighted, for the first time, the lights on the cab approaching him. He presumed that the first section of the train was being properly backward by its engine, and that some one was on the lookout for him. He had no idea that the train was wild. However, he soon detected that something was wrong. He blew for the brakes and reversed his engine. Still the red lights on the cab in front of him came nearer and nearer. Finally they were so near him that he knew Finally they were so near him that he knew a collision was inevitable. He told his fire-man, Oscar Curry, to take care of himself, and then prepared to jump. Both men jumped at the same instant, but they were both too late, for just then the engine and the cab came to-gether, and both men were caught between the engine and the tender. The collision was a bad one. The cab was telescoped and five cars badly wrecked. The noise made by the collision was loud enough to have been

Engineer Wysong was caught by the right foot between the tender and the engine and was held there until removed. His fireman, was held there until removed. His hreman, Oscar Curry, was pinned between the cab of his engine and the tender. The escaping steam ran over him, and in the bed of hot water he remained for several hours. The trainmen with the first section followed their wild cars back until they came to the wreck. Then they began an effort to rescue the unfortunate men. Messengers were the to Medaneyer for aid. Early in the morning Engineer Wysong was taken out. He was alive, but was suffering terribly. He was given every attention, while the search for his fireman was continued. Currey was removed about eight o'clock. His face and body were bedly seedled end by wised. He was affering badly scalded and bruised. He was suffering and died about 9 o'clock. His left leg was hor ribly mutilated, his left arm was badly lacerated, the back of his head was cut, while his face was disfigured by the steam and hot water. Engineer Wysong's injuries were all in his left foot. The heel was caught between the engine and tender, and he may lose the feet.

The engine, No. 12, was considerably battered up, but none of its machinery was hurt. The smoke-stack was knocked off and its cab demolished. After daylight some one cab demoished. After daylight some one found a negro man lying near one of the cars He was quite seriously hurt, and when questioned said that he and another negro had been on the lumber car. They got on the train at Macon to steal a ride to Atlants. They were lying down when the train started on its wild run. Just before the collision his companion became frightened and leaped off. The negro gave his name as Williams. A search was then made, and about a mile away the other negro was found. a mile away the other negro was found.

THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

A Lively But Harmonious Session Yesterday Afternoon-What Was Done.

The board of aldermen convened in regular session yesterday afternoon. The meeting was held in the committee room at the city hall and was attended by Mayor Hillyer, presiding, and Aldermen Mecasiin, Stockdell, Cooper, and Aldermen Mecasiin, Stockdell, Cooper, Gramling and Hutchison.

The journal of the meeting of January 21 was read and approved. Mayor Hillyer, in response to an inquiry of one of the aldermen, said that the conference committee recently appointed by himself to confer with the aldermen relative to the appointments had not been requested to be present. He then said that he did not think there was any necessity for a hurry, inasmuch as the clerk had presented duplicate balance sheets. He did not think that there was a possibility of a close margin in any of the apportionments at present, and suggested that the conference could be had in the future. Mayor Hillyer also referred to the meeting of the railroad officials and the committees relative to the railroad crossings, and mittees relative to the railroad crossings, and said that by the conference it would require an expenditure. He also referred to the contemplated sale of the waterworks, and said if the sale was accomplished it would bring quite a snug suminto the treasury and the general council could then afford to be more liberal.

Mr. Stockdell took occasion, in following Mayer Hillyer, to refer to the talk of returning the whole or a part of the $15,000 from the contingent to the sewer fund. He said that he had no objection to such action, as the money could be again transferred from the sewer fund to any fund that needed to be augmented as easily as to transfer it from the contingent fund. His only object in placing the $15,000 in the contingent fund was to make that fund.

Mr. Mecaslin coincided with Mr. Stockdell, and said that when any fund was getting low it would be an easy matter to stop the expense somewhere else, and carry the needed amount to the fund needed. "For instance," said he, "suppose we give this $15,000 back to the sewers. The

Mr. Gramling said that there was a demand for more sewers, and that that fund ought not to be decreased. He said that the finance cemmittee had done the best it could. The committee did not think it safe to count on an ncrease in the receipts. In fact, he feared the increase in the receipts. In fact, he feared the contrary.

Mr. Van Winkle's council resolution directing the opening of Harris and Foundry streets at their intersection, and the payment to Samuel Nix of $1,300, which was awarded to him by assessors, was taken up. Mr. Mecaslin favored concurrence. City Engineer Angier presented a profile showing the change made in Mr. Nix's property. Action on the petition was postponed.

Mr. Gramling suggested that the mayor should appoint a committee of citizens to investigate the probable result.

Mr. Mecaslin declared that Mr. Gramling did not know what he was talking about. He wanted to go to the bottom.

Mr. Gramling said that Colonel Baum had told him that $100 would put in the pumps necessary to try the power and capacity of the present streams flowing into the well. He was in favor of taking a halt in the drilling and trying the pumps. He believed that the well was leaking, but was in favor of continuing as long as there is a chance.

Our citizens will witness to-night the grandest performance of the season. Only one performnce like it was given here a few years ago by Salvini, the other brilliant Italian star, and both will be counted as the greatest treats by those who will have witnessed them. REASONS WHY

The Stevens Patent Watches are the Best.

BECAUSE—The time keeping results which they have yielded place them foremost in the market for accuracy, reliability, and special adaptability for rough

BECAUSE—They have features of improvement that cannot be found in any other

BECAUSE—Should an accident to any part, a duplicate of that part can be supplied at our factory here, and the watch put running again in thirty minutes. BECAUSE—They are indorsed by hundreds of our best citizens who have subjected them to the severest tests

BECAUSE—It is a southern enterprise, and every part of each watch is guaranteed by a responsible home establishment who have a reputation to sustain.

BECAUSE—Purchasers can see in our stock the largest assortment of watches ever shown in the south—and we defy all competition so far as prices are concerned. Send for Catalogue.
